2. WHO WE ARE

Dsectors was founded on a simple observation: development partners in Bangladesh increasingly require research and advisory partners who combine methodological rigour with genuine field access to marginalised and hard-to-reach populations, and who can meet the compliance standards of institutional donors without sacrificing speed or contextual insight.

Our Board of Directors brings together, in a single firm, capabilities that are ordinarily distributed across several: a USAID Project Design Team Lead who facilitated a portfolio of approximately 240 projects and activities valued at close to USD 3 billion; a World Bank Social Development Specialist who delivered gender and GBV technical leadership across 50+ sovereign operations in Bangladesh and Bhutan; a UN Women and Oxfam gender and humanitarian specialist with 27 years of leadership in gender-responsive DRR and climate resilience; a communications and knowledge-management specialist who has led or contributed to over 30 research studies for UNAIDS, ActionAid, Save the Children, Bandhu and Justice and Care; an academic researcher in gender, media and discourse analysis; and a certified enterprise architect with over 35 end-to-end ERP implementations for clients including Save the Children, CIRDAP and the Government of Bangladesh.

The result is a firm that can design a study, secure ethical clearance, reach key populations, analyse and write to donor standard, communicate the findings at scale, and build the digital systems that carry the results into practice — under one contract.

What Distinguishes Us

- Donor-compliance fluency. Directors have sat on the donor side of the table — designing Project Appraisal Documents (PADs), serving as AOR/COR, and assessing gender tags — and understand exactly what World Bank, ADB, USAID, FCDO, DFAT, ECHO and UN procurement requires of a deliverable.
- Access to hard-to-reach populations. A decade of HIV and key-population programming has given the firm working relationships with community-led organisations serving people who inject drugs, female sex workers, transgender/hijra and SOGIESC communities — populations that conventional survey firms cannot reliably reach.
- Gender and safeguards as core competence, not an add-on. Three of our directors are recognised specialists in gender mainstreaming, GBV/SEA/SH risk management, and IFC Performance Standards / World Bank ESS compliance.
- Research-to-communication continuity. We do not stop at the report. Our campaigns have reached upwards of 60 million people nationwide, and our BCC/IEC materials are in use in national programmes under the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare.
- Digital delivery capability. In-house ERP, platform and AI-integration expertise allows us to deliver digital outreach models, MIS systems and e-commerce platforms rather than merely recommending them.

3. MISSION, VISION AND CORE VALUES

Vision

A Bangladesh where development decisions are made on evidence, and where the people most affected by those decisions have a voice in shaping them.

Mission

To deliver rigorous, ethically-grounded research, evaluation and advisory services that enable government, development partners and civil society to design and implement inclusive, gender-responsive and climate-resilient interventions at scale.

Core Values

Value	What It Means in Practice
Integrity	Full transparency in methodology, sampling, limitations and conflicts of interest; findings are reported as they are found.
Rigour	Ethical clearance, informed consent, triangulated methods, and analysis that withstands donor and peer review.

Value	What It Means in Practice
Inclusion	Deliberate design for the participation of women, persons with disabilities, indigenous communities, SOGIESC populations and other excluded groups.
Innovation	Applying digital tools, netnography, AI-assisted analysis and virtual outreach where they measurably improve reach or quality.
Sustainability	Solutions that are environmentally responsible, locally owned and viable beyond the life of the contract.

4. SERVICE PORTFOLIO

10. OUR APPROACH

Phase	What We Do
1. Inception and Design	Clarify the evaluation or research question against the client's decision needs; agree the theory of change and evaluation matrix; design sampling and instruments; secure ethical clearance and informed-consent protocols; produce an inception report to donor standard.
2. Access and Data Collection	Deploy trained, gender-balanced enumeration teams; work through community-led organisations to reach key and hard-to-reach populations; apply safeguarding, PSEA and do-no-harm protocols throughout; supervise fieldwork with real-time quality assurance.
3. Analysis and Validation	Triangulate quantitative, qualitative and digital/netnographic data; test findings against alternative explanations; hold validation workshops with the client, government counterparts and the communities concerned.
4. Reporting and Uptake	Deliver donor-standard reports, policy briefs and dissemination products; convert findings into BCC/IEC materials, campaigns and training modules where required; support the client to take the evidence into policy dialogue.
5. Institutionalisation	Build the client's own capacity — training, toolkits, MIS and digital systems — so that the evidence base can be maintained after the assignment closes.

11. WORKFORCE AND DELIVERY CAPACITY

Dsectors maintains a core management team and draws on an established roster of associate consultants, field supervisors and enumerators, allowing us to scale rapidly for large-sample and multi-district assignments without carrying idle overhead.

Function	Capability
Research and Analytics	Principal and co-investigators, statisticians, qualitative analysts, M&E and MEAL specialists with international project experience.
